

1. Little White Schoolhouse

303 Blackburn Street

The Birthplace of the Republican Party. On March 20, 1854, a group of area citizens met in this schoolhouse to form a new antislavery party and give it the name Republican. The markers in front of the building provide more information.

2. Downtown Ripon

Corner of Watson and Blossom Streets

Downtown Ripon is noted for its many fine examples of late 19th and early 20th century commercial architecture. Fire destroyed some of the original downtown buildings and dates of previous fires helped determine when replacement buildings were constructed. Generally buildings from the 1860s to the 1870s are located around the square and to the south. Buildings from the 1890s and 1900 are mostly in the 300 block of Watson Street where we are now headed. As you proceed south take note of the stylistic similarities of the buildings. Notice the changing detail in the building cornice lines as well as the use of imported cast iron columns and trim.

3. Old Carnegie Library

401 Watson Street; Built 1905

Ripon's Library Association was formed in 1855 but lacked a permanent home until this building was constructed. Built with a grant from steel magnate Andrew Carnegie, this building housed the Ripon Public Library from 1905 until 1973. In that year the library moved to larger facilities north of City Hall. Now home of Ripon College Office of the President.

4. Pickard Home

508 Watson

This building now houses the Ripon Historical Society, which was chartered in 1899 and is one of the oldest municipal historical societies in Wisconsin. This small museum has been the society's home since 1965. The Historical Society welcomes visitors several times each year during scheduled Open Houses.

5. Bumby Home

526 Watson Street

This "Painted Lady" was built by the founder of Ripon Foods, now Bremner, Inc., makers of Rippin' Good Cookies. The Bumby family was very prominent in Ripon and the construction of this Queen Anne took six years at the turn of the century. Note the curved glass windows.

6. Reed Home

536 Watson Street

This refurbished brick Italianate home was built by Judge Reed, an alderman and mayor of Ripon. Reed's descendents still live here.

7. Haseltine Home

537 Watson Street

Originally from England, the Haseltines built this house in early 20th century when they moved from the home which is currently the Republican House.

8. Zobel Home

603 Watson Street

Another "Painted Lady," this home was built by the musical Zobel family. Edgar Zobel composed many musical scores including the "South Woods Symphony" named for the nature area southwest of Ripon.

9. Haase Home

750 Ransom Street

This turn of the century Neoclassical home was built by the Haase family who owned the Haase Brewery on Silver Creek in Ripon.

10. Lyle Home

629 Ransom Street

This home has stayed in the family and is still lived in by descendents of the original builder. Note the fence around the property. It was used to keep animals out rather than in. This was true of the many homes of the period.

11. Barber Home

621 Ransom Street

Built by a physics teacher at Ripon College, this Italianate home used to face Watson Street. When the lot on Watson was sold, this side, which was rear of the house, was transformed into the front.

12. J.B. Barlow Home

203 Watertown Street

This Tudor style house was built in 1929 by Joseph B. Barlow, one of the founders of Speed Queen. The bricks for the house came from the chimney of the old Arcade Mill.

13. Manville House

541 Woodside Avenue

This is an outstanding example of French Second Empire, or Mansard architecture. It was built in 1871.

14. Richard Catlin House

512 Woodside Avenue

Richard Catlin was the brother of George Catlin, famous artist of the American Indian. For some time this cut stone mansion built in the 1850s was the only house on the block and was done in the fashionable Italianate style.

15. Hughes House

Corner of Seward and Woodside

This well-preserved Italianate house was built in 1863 by William E. Merriman, first president of Ripon College. Between 1901 and 1966 it again served as the president's home and is now the home of the Admission Office of Ripon College, the Hughes Honor Society. It is named after Richard Hughes, fourth president of the College.

16. Ripon College

300 Seward Street

A coeducational, non-sectarian liberal arts college, Ripon College enrolls about 1,000 students. Founded in 1851 by the City founders, they set forth to grace their community with "an educational institution of the highest order."

As you walk up the hill, on your right is Farr Hall of Science built in 1961, and on the left is Bartlett Hall built in 1888. Attached to it is the Harwood Memorial Union which was built in 1942. As you reach the crest of the hill, Lane Library, built in 1930, is on your left and Todd Wehr Hall, which houses many classes, is opposite.

Straight ahead are the three original campus buildings, East Hall built in 1851, Smith Hall, built in 1855, and West Hall, built in 1867. From these three buildings the college has expanded to the south and west where most of the residence halls are located. The physical education and fine arts complexes are to the west at the bottom of the hill. In front of East Hall you will see an historic marker erected by the State of Wisconsin commemorating the college's founding.

17. First Congregational Church, UCC

220 Ransom Street

In 1850 the Congregationalists and Presbyterians organized the first church in the Ripon area. Their small wooden church was built on this site in 1853. It was replaced by the present structure 12 years later. Designed by noted Wisconsin architect Townsend Mix, the building is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

End of tour. You may now proceed down Blossom Street to Watson Street and on to the Little White Schoolhouse if you wish. We hope you enjoyed your tour of historic Ripon!
